Some information worth sharing...

I have spent time out of school lately at regional meetings. Interestingly much of what is discussed at these meetings impacts all of us who make up Moora Primary School. Here is some feedback that you may find interesting:

- Working With Children clearances will now be a federal affair, ensuring that all appropriate measures are in place to keep children safe.
- Changes to the Disability Act will impact schools and teachers will be given additional resources and training in order to support the changes.
- A national anti-bullying inquiry has made recommendations to states which will impact schools from 2027. I am sharing this information with teachers on a weekly basis so they are up-to-date.
- NDIS has a new program called Thriving Kids that targets 0-6 year olds.
- WA School Assistance Payments close soon. Have you applied for your money?
- We can improve attendance through quality teaching, cultural alignment and making sure we are creating a strong sense of belonging in our classes and school.
- Triple P - parenting sessions are available through our regional office. If you would like more information in this regard, please feel free to make contact.
- Bushfire season is galloping toward us. We have work to do on our campus. Do you have work to complete to get your family home ready?
- Am El'nino in Australia generally means drier times for WA and increased fuel load in our surrounds, creating opportunities for fire.
- Any concerns about smoke/fire - report it!

Have a wonderful few weeks
Karen

ATTENDANCE

Semester 2 data

Whilst we have an increase in attendance in the yellow area - which puts our overall attendance figures at 80.2%, we would LOVE to see a decline in both the red and orange categories. Many students who sit in these ratings just need to attend school a few more days in order to meet the Department's expectations.

Remember - regular attendance means greater improvement in learning!
